

Recommendation for the use of spelt husks pellets

Basically there are several ways to use spelt husk pellets.

Standard bedding

Apply approx. 2 cm spelt husk pellets. Apply evenly the water with 3 l/m². These 2 cm will swell up to a mattress with a height of about 4-5 cm.

Mucking with the fork will show a very small loss of bedding. Wet spots should be removed. In order to obtain the mattress, we recommend sprinkling 1 – 2 bags (15 kg) per week (10 m² each). If necessary mix the spelt husks lightly with the stock using a fork. Depending on the horse the amount can be higher or lower during re-gritting.

Through that moisten the spelt husks pellets lose the attractiveness for the horses. The horses are interested, check the new husk bedding but finally they prefer the hay. When eating we consider a low risk since the swollen husks are biologically equivalent to straw. However, the suction power is significantly higher. Horses are of course very different. With omnivores we advise caution.

We offer bags with 15 kg, one pallet are 65 bags each 975 kg. Or we produce big bags with 450 kg. The price is in € ex works.

Allergy sufferers: Users report that the use of spelt husk pellets is a great advantage. Due to the extremely high suction power, this can be moistened again and again. This shifts dust components downwards. The horses are exposed to less dust. Particularly interesting is the fact that the bedding often dries off in summer with good stable ventilation and is therefore even more economical.

Liability: We reject liability for our spelt husks bedding as the application is beyond our sphere of influence.
